South Delhi galvanises 'Chipko' movement to save 14,000 trees

PROTEST More than 1,500 people gathered to save mass felling of trees for a government redevelopment project

NEW DELHI: Amidst the ongoing political blame-game between the Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) and the Union government over permission to cut at least 14,000 trees in south Delhiarea, more than 1,500 peeple participated in Delhi's own version of 'Chipko' movement at Sarojini Nagar on Sunday afternoon to save the trees, which have been proposed to be cut down to give way to redevelopment of Central government quarters.

Even though the environment impact assessment report for the projects had initially stated that 16,500 trees were proposed to be cut, a statement issued by the Union urban and housing affairs ministry on Thursday claimed that only 14,031 trees are to be cut. "We would not allow the trees to be felled. Just like the Chipko movement, we would hug the trees if anyone comes to cut then," said Verhaen Khamma, an environment activist and one of the organisers.

The participants hugged the trees that are to be felled, tied green ribbons around the trees symbolising rakhisand shouted slogans. They carried placards with messages urging people and the government to save trees. Free saplings were also distributed.

"From Monday, at least 10 volunteers will sit and spend the day at the same place at Sarojini Nagar where Sunday's campaign was organised. This relay campaign will continue till the government revokes its decision, said Anil Sood, an advocate who filed a petition before the National Green Tribunal to stop felling of trees.

The AAP lent its support to the activists. The state environment and forest minister Imran Husain and AAP spokesman Saurabh Bharadwaj participated in the campaign even though or ganisers said that the protest was apolitical.

"It is a Union government's project and it was their decision to cut down the trees. The envi-ronment clearance for the project was given by the Union environ-ment and forest ministry in November 2017. The final approval was given by Delhi's L-G Anil Baijal. Imran Hussain had earlier raised objections as he had asked the forest depart-ment to check whether the num-ber of trees to be felled could be reduced and some could be trans-located," Bharadwaj said. Officials from the L-G office said that proposals do not reach the L-G for approval unless it is cleared and recommended by the ministers, in this case the environment minister, on Saturday, Union environment and forest minister Harsh Vardhan said, "For the non-forest areas, whatever local permissions are to be given, are given by the Delhi government. It is directly under the jurisdiction of the Delhi government and not governed by us."

The Delhi-unit of BJP, on the other hand, blamed the AAP government for playing politics over trees when its own minister gave approval for tree felling.

"It was the Delhi government which gave the mandatory permission for felling and replantation of trees according to the law. The state forest minister knew everything," said Manoj Tiwari, chief of Delhi BJP.

On Thursday, the Union ministry of urban and housing affairs had stated that compensatory plantation of trees will be done in the ratio of 1:10, thereby resulting in enhanced tree coverage area.

Managing director of NBCC
Anoop Kumar Mittal in an interview to an agency, however, claimed that the number of trees slated to be cut is much lesser than what is being reported.

Delhi Trees SOS

Since DAY 1, this fb page was created to get people together for saving 16500 beautiful healthy trees full of wildlife in South Delhi.

Every evening people meet at Africa Avenue and 3rd cross road of Sarojini Nagar, to light candles and express their love for trees.

This helped the movement gain great momentum and was covered by many media channels.

High Court Stay

NBCC was asked to stop felling trees till July 4th.

Kidwai Nagar Deforestation

Take a good look at what NBCC did with Kidwai Nagar. They would like to do the same in several other areas of Delhi by killing thousands and lakhs of beautiful healthy trees full of wildlife. In the process they kill all the nesting creatures and destroy their source of food.

One of the boss of this project said that it is 3 times greener and that 10 feet tall saplings have been planted. They tried making a fool out of educated citizens of New Delhi. When we surveyed the area, we found that the "green space" was such a sham , mostly palms and ornamental saplings.

The beautiful healthy trees full of wildlife which stood here before were at least 50-100 year old, and now this ugly atrocity jars the civilians eyes and minds. Their projects are total disasters and complete failures, according to renowned architects and experts from multiple backgrounds.
